WORSHIP

What's up with worship?

Sermon series: "Broken Beauty"

So often we do not allow the broken places of our lives to be healed, and they become something we are ashamed of. Through the work of God in Christ, our brokenness is not only redeemed, but becomes something new and beautiful that reveals the glory of God to the world.

During Lent we are examining different characters in the scriptures who struggled with their own fragility. We are allowing these characters to teach us ways to live that prepare us for the work of God's healing in Christ's death and resurrection.

This week in worship...

When healing begins, often others do not want to let it be complete. We often find that the hardest part of finding beauty in our brokenness, and being redeemed, is that others deal better with us when we are broken. The blind man refused to let the Pharisees take away or belittle his healing. We have to learn to stand strong in Christ's redeeming work in and through us.
